PROPOSALS

For Publishing, by Subscription,

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

SIR WALTER SCOTT:

With a Biography: being the first American (and only) edition which contains the Author's last additions and illustrations, arranged upon their respective pages.

A COMPLETE and uniform edition of the various productions of the great 'Minstrel of the North,' is a desideratum with the American public. No library is complete without them, and no edition extant is sufficiently compact for such a repository; while the endless number of editions, without any uniformity in size, heretofore published, besides being exceedingly cumbrous, are far too voluminous and expensive to be within the reach of the great majority of readers. The undersigned therefore announce, that they have now in press, and will issue, an edition of the Works of Sir Walter Scott, which will embrace all his Poems, Novels, Histories, Biographies, and Fugitive Compositions, as well as the Biography and Private Correspondence, now in the course of publication in England, under the superintendence of Mr. Lockhart.

1st. In Parts: each Part embracing as much matter as is contained in two volumes of the present editions of the Waverley Novels, which will be put at the unprecedented low price of THIRTY SEVEN AND A HALF CENTS.

2d. Two parts will appear each month; but should the publishers find the work to meet the patronage they anticipate, FOUR PARTS will be issued monthly.

3d. The whole will be completed in seven volumes, or forty eight parts.

The paper on which the above is now printing, has been made expressly for the purpose; the present parts may, therefore, be considered a fair specimen, in every respect, of the whole work; but, should dissatisfaction arise with any subscriber, owing to an inferior article being offered, he may discontinue at any time, and have the amount paid returned.

Note.—The publication of the first volume is deferred until the receipt of the Biography, Private Correspondence, and the New Edition of the Author's Poetical Works, with 'contemporary criticism—various readings—and correspondence with some of the most eminent persons of the time when the Poems first appeared,' now in the course of publication in England.

Volume I will be ornamented with an excellent Portrait of Sir Walter Scott.

DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, SEPT. 10, 1833.

PENNSYLVANIA CANAL.—The late rain has filled the Canal almost to overflowing, and it is now in the "full tide of successful experiment."

☞ Correction.—In noticing the Fair, in our paper of yesterday, we stated that the proceeds exceeded eight*een* hundred dollars; by a typographical error, this was reduced to eight hundred.

CANAL COMMISSIONERS.—As these gentlemen are now in this city, and about to proceed from this place to Newcastle, and from thence to Erie, to examine the rout of the Canal to that place—we would take the liberty to suggest to them the propriety of their also examining the rout of the proposed Canal, from the mouth of the Mahoning, by the Portage summit, to the Ohio Canal, at Akron. —Perhaps, if they had leisure, it might be well that they should also travel over the rout of the proposed Rail Road.

We have strong hopes that the great importance of a connection with the Ohio Canal is becoming so manifest, that our legislature will feel the necessity of doing something in aid of this work; or, at least, of deliberating on it, during the next session. It would, therefore, be very desirable that the Canal Commissioners being men of judgment and experience, and without any bias or interest in the matter, should examine the rout, or routs, of the proposed connection, and thus be prepared to give an opinion, if called on.

It is not supposed that any direct aid will be required to complete the connecting Canal, by the Mahoning. If the State would guarantee to the company five per cent., for their investment, for twenty years, the necessary funds could readily be raised.

That there would be no risk in making such a guarantee is manifest, from the consideration that the expense of making a Canal, about seventy miles long, will at once add to our Canal an internal communication of more than four hundred miles long, besides the whole extent of the great Lakes.

A visit to the delightful country through which this Canal would pass, would, we have no doubt, afford the Commissioners much pleasure. The wonderful and rapid improvements which have been made in the Western Reserve, will, no doubt, surprize and gratify them; and the amount of trade, and the bustle of business, on the Ohio Canal, will astonish them. We, therefore, earnestly desire that they would devote three or four days, or even a week, to a personal examination of that part of the country.

For the Gazette.

MR. CRAIG—I was much pleased to see, in your last week's paper, that the enterprizing merchants of New York have formed a line of Packets between that City and Natchez. I recollect to have seen an account of an arrival of a sea vessel, before, at that port; it must have been many years ago, probably before New Orleans came into the possession of the United States. I have often thought that it was not improbable but that place would, some day, (owing to the unhealthy situation of New Orleans, which has been the grave of thousands of our hardy and most valuable citizens,) become a great shipping port, as vessels of the largest tonnage can be taken, by steam boats, to that city.

The whole western country are interested in the success of this undertaking; and, perhaps, none more so than the citizens of Pittsburgh—it will lessen the distance, at least three hundred miles, to a seaport, on the Mississippi.

This consideration induced me to enquire if any foreign goods had been bonded at our Custom House, agreeable to the Act making this a Port of Entry. I was not a little surprized to find that our Importers still continue to have their goods bonded at New Orleans, and the amount imported very large. I could not help feeling some regret, for the honor of our city, when I was informed that it was thought that this was the only port on these waters, except Wheeling, where foreign goods had not been regularly bonded. It would be supposed that the facility, as well as the saving of commissions, at New Orleans, would be sufficient to induce our Importers to avail themselves of this mode, in preference to any other; and, it is well known that, steam vessels arrive at this port in the spring and fall, but a greater proportion in the spring, direct from New Orleans.

From the United States Gazette.

We had commenced some remarks upon the state of Portugal, as effected by the recent success of Don Pedro, when we opened Bell's Weekly Messenger for August 4th, and found some observations which we think more worthy the attention of those who take an interest in the affairs of the Peninsula.

LONDON, August 4.

The contest in Portugal may now be considered as virtually concluded; Lisbon has surrendered to the arms of Don Pedro, and Donna Maria de Gloria is at once, de facto and de jure, Queen of Portugal and the Algarves. Thus again have thrones and dynasties depended on the valor of a single arm, and the daring audacity and presumptuous valor of a British sailor have changed the fortunes of an empire. But what are the prospects of Portugal under the approaching new system of things? What advantage has been gained to the cause of true liberty by this bloody and protracted contest? The character of Don Pedro, as given by recent accounts from the seat of war, by his own partisans, is that of a man totally deficient in power of mind and strength of character, given up to favoritism of the lowest description; jealous of his British allies, to whom alone he is indebted for his success, capricious in his friendship, ungrateful in rewarding services done for him, wanting in conduct, and surrounded by as base a crew of flatterers as ever perverted the mind of the most autocratical tyrant. Low intrigue, tortuous policy, and bas ecunning, have distinguished the whole of his residence at Oporto; and we believe that those who knew him in Brazil, can speak but little in praise of his conduct there. To such a man is the regeneration of Portugal entrusted. Let us now look at the ministers from whom he must choose a government. To use names which will be understood in England, we may say that the cabinet of Don Pedro is divided into three parties. First, that of the personal flatterers of the ex-Emperor. Second, under the influence of Count Villa Flor, the radical and ultra liberal friends of the constitution and the Queen. The third, under the conduct of the Marquis Palmella, a loyal moderate Tory, who is as much for the old regime and the Queen, and as little of the constitution as possible. —Such are the discordant elements from which Don Pedro has to form a regency and a government. He cannot assume the chief power himself.—He cannot give it into the hands of the liberal party, who will at once embroil him with Spain; and if he entrusts it to the Duke de Palmella, Portugal and liberty will gain but little by the change. One thing, however, is satisfactory—this event, and the changes subsequent, will breathe fresh life on the stagnant waters of the Peninsula; Spain will resume her former vigor and fertility, and the flag of Portugal may again waft her commerce o'er the southern ocean, and hail in Don Pedro, another Prince John.

But another consideration presents itself to our view—the navy of Don Pedro is now more than sufficiently large for the defence of Portugal;—what will he do with it? This question is not difficult to answer—the ex-Emperor of Brazil, whose infant son still occupies the throne, will return to her shore, and hurl to the winds the feeble opposition of a distracted government. Having succeeded for his daughter, he will now make a trial for himself, and the colonies of Portugal may yet be rejoined in alliance to their mother country.

Resources of the British Empire.—In statements, whether of British income or expenditure, I observe that fractions of a million or two seem to be inconsidered. They are scarcely understood but by those who will be at the pains of tracing them amidst the rubbish of accounts, and not always then. As to the debt, what shall I say? If I specify any sum, I may unconsciously commit a fractional error of fifty millions! To find out precisely what it is, seems to baffle inquiry. Dr. Hamilton, in his work on this subject, states a curious fact. He says, that in an account of the public debt, presented to the House of Commons, in 1799, it was found impossible to ascertain the sums raised at different periods which created the funds existing prior to the thirty third year of George the Third. This candid avowal of ignorance, where all official means of information were at command, may well excuse, as the able author remarks, a private inquirer if his statement be imperfect. But I will set the debt down at EIGHT HUNDRED MILLIONS! This as an absolute sum strikes the world as enormous. It loses this character when viewed in connection with the resources of Great Britain, the latter having increased in a ratio greater than her debt; a position susceptible of demonstration, though I do not here design to enter upon it. It may be proof enough, that in the face of this debt, her Government could, at any moment, borrow from British capitalists fresh sums larger than were ever borrowed before; and than could be raised by the United exertions of all the Governments of Europe. Credit so unbounded can only rest upon the known extent and solidity of her resources; upon her agricultural, manufacturing, and commercial riches; the first coming from her highly cultivated soil and its exhaustless mines, not of gold and silver, but of iron and coal, for ever profitably worked; the second, from the various and universal labor bestowed on raw materials, which brings into play all the industry of her people, suffering none to be lost for want of objects; the third, for a system of navigation and trade, followed up for ages, which enables her to send to every part of the globe the products of this vast and diversified industry, after supplying all her own wants. This system of navigation and trade is greatly sustained by a colonial empire of gigantic size, that perpetually increases the demand for her manufactures, and favors the monopoly of her tonnage. These are visible foundations of her incalculable riches; consequently of her credit. Both seem incessantly augmenting.—It is remarkable that she extends them in the midst of wars. What cripples the resources of other nations, multiplies her's.—Rush's Residence at the Court of London.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

The Russian troops quitted the neighborhood of Constantinople on the 2d of July. The Egyptians at that time had nearly all marched out of the Sultan's territory, and Sir Pulteney Malcolm had sailed away from the Dardanelles. The Porte is, therefore, once more freed from the assistance and surveillance of her dear allies, and the fear of her rebellious Pacha.

The Gazette of the Ionian islands, (dated July 20) states that according to the terms of a new treaty between Russia and the Porte, the former power was to send forthwith a corps of 6,000 men to Janina, to put down a rebellion there by the partisans of Mehemet Ali. Russian auxiliaries to Turkey! But the wretched mussulman, of course, has never read the modern history of Poland—its past was better known to his predecessors. This step may be taken as another step to the subjugation of Turkey to the grasping power of the Autocrat.

It is said that another attempt at assassination has been made on the person of the Emperor Nicholas, which was discovered a short time before the day appointed for its execution. The following particulars are given:—

"Some strangers who have recently arrived at Frankfort from the North, are uncertain whether the Emperor Nicholas will go to Germany. According to their account, the Russian Government is far from having got hold of all the accomplices of the conspiracy which was formed against the life of the Monarch. It is said that, in consequence of the search caused by the projected attempt, it was discovered that great quantities of powder had been purchased at Riga, with which the conspirators intended to charge a mine, situated in the great road between Petersburg and Wilna, and to set fire to it at the very moment the carriage of the Emperor should pass.

The following extract, from the London Spectator, giving the result of the enquiry into habitual bribery at the Liverpool elections, presents a precious picture, truly:—N. Y. Amer.

"The Liverpool Bribery Committee has made its report. It confirms the worst that has been stated respecting the corruption of the freemen of that borough. The Committee confined its inquiries into the circumstances attending elections which have taken place since 1823, excepting that of 1832, which had been made the subject of previous invetsigation. It seems, that at the election for Mayor, in 1827, the price of votes was as high as twenty pounds, and as low as six shillings; that in 1830, at an election of a member of Parliament, the price began at £2 and reached £80 per vote; that at this election, each candidate, or his friends, spent not less than £40,000. No fewer than 2,661 freemen were proved to have taken bribes—the better sort of tradesmen, as they are called, as well as the poor men—at this contest. Of these, 1,880 are still on the register, entitled to vote. In this state of things, the Committee recommended the House of Commons "to introduce a bill to restrict the franchises, and to alter the whole system of elections in that borough, as well for members to sit in Parliament as for municipal officers."

LATE FROM NEW GRANADA.

Captain Jones, of the brig Elizabeth, arrived at New York, from Carthagena, from whom an official account has been received, signed by the Governor of that place, stating that a conspiracy was discovered by the President on the night of the 23d of July.—Measures were immediately taken by him to arrest those concerned in it. Colonel Jose Manuel Montoya, military chief of the province, was ordered to apprehend an individual named Arjona, whose previous conduct had given cause to suspect him. When conducting Arjona to prison, Montoya was assassinated by him in the street. His accomplices, sixty in number, thinking their plan discovered, that night fled from the capital on the road to Tunja.—They were all made prisoners by the Governor of that place, with the exception of five individuals, on the 26th—among the number was the above named Arjona. Order was then again restored.

Capt. Briggs states that a misunderstanding had arisen between one of the authorities of Carthagena and the French consul, M. Barrot, who was in consequence confined in prison, but his liberation was momentarily expected. A French schooner of war was in the harbor, on the point of sailing for Martinique with the ratification of a treaty of commerce, which had been concluded between New Granada and France.—Poulson.

Extracts from Dick's Essay on the Improvement of Society by the diffusion of Knowledge.

"In the first place, the number of effects produced by a single principle in nature is calculated to excite emotions of admiration and delight.—From the single principle of gravitation, for instance, proceed all the beauties and sublimities which arise from the meandering rills, the majestic rivers, and the roaring cataracts—it causes the mountains to rest on a solid basis, and confines the ocean to its appointed channels—retains the inhabitants of the earth to its surface, and prevents them from flying off in wild confusion through the voids of space—it produces the descent of the rains and dews, and alternate flux and reflux of the tides—regulates the various movements of all animals—forms mechanical powers—gives impulsion to numerous machines—rolls the moon round the earth, and prevents her from flying off to the distant regions of space—extends its influence from the moon to the earth, from the earth to the moon, and from the sun to the remotest planets, preserving surrounding worlds in their proper courses, and connecting the solar system with other worlds and systems in the remote spaces of the universe. When a stick of sealing wax is rubbed with a piece of flannel, it attracts feathers or small bits of paper; when a long tube of glass, or a cat's back is rubbed in the dark, it emits flashes of fire, accompanied with a snapping noise.—Now is it not delightful for a rational mind to know, that the same principle which causes wax or amber to attract light substances, and glass tubes or cylinders to emit sparks of fire, produces the lightnings of heaven, and all the sublime phenomena which accompany a violent thunder storm, and, in combination with other agents, produces also the fiery meteor which sweeps through the sky with its luminous train, and the beautiful coruscations of the aurora borealis? There are more than fifty thousand different species of plants in the vegetable kingdom, all differing from one another in their size, structure, flowers, leaves, fruits, mode of propagation, internal vessels, medicinal virtues, and the odors they exhale. Who would imagine that this immense assemblage of vegetable productions which adorn the surface of the earth in every clime, with such a diversity of forms, fruits, and colors, are the result of the combination of four or five simple substances variously modified by the hand of the Creator? Yet it is an undoubted fact, ascertained, from chemical analysis, that all vegetable substances, from the invisible mushroom, which adheres to a spot of mouldiness, to the cedar of Lebanon, and the banian tree, which would cover with its shade an army of ten thousand men, are solely composed of the following natural principles—caloric, light, water, air, and carbon.

Again, is it not wonderful that the invisible atmosphere should compress our bodies every moment with a weight of more than 30,000 pounds, without our feeling it, and the whole earth with a weight of 12,043,468,800,000,000,000 pounds, or five thousand billions of tons; that this pressure is essentially necessary to our existence, and that a small quantity of air within us, which would not weigh above a single ounce, by its strong elastic force counteracts the effects of this tremendous pressure upon our bodies, and prevents our being crushed to pieces—that the same cause prevents our habitations from falling upon us, and crushing us to death, without which our glass windows would be shattered to atoms, and our most stately edifices tumbled into ruins!—that this atmosphere is at the same time performing an immense variety of operations in nature and art—insinuating itself into the pores and sap vessels of plants and flowers—producing respiration in all living beings, and supporting all the processes of life and vegetation throughout the animal and vegetable creation—that its pressure produces the process of what is called suction and cupping—causes snails and periwinkles to adhere to the rocks on which they are found—gives effect to the adhesion of bodies by means of mortar and cements—raises water in our forcing pumps and fire engines—supports the quicksilver in our barometers—prevents the water of our seas and rivers from boiling and evaporating into steam—and promotes the action of our steam engines while raising water from deep pits, and while propelling vessels along seas and rivers!" * * * * * *

A young Parisian, of the name of Leger, went on a commercial adventure to Egypt in the year 1822; but, during some of the convulsions of that unsettled country, he lost the little property with which he was entrusted, and was forced to make a precipitate retreat from Suez to Alexandria. He remained some time at Alexandria, destitute, and almost hopeless. But the talent of observation, and the social habits characteristic of his countrymen, came to his aid: in a lucky moment he formed the resolution of retrieving his fortune by introducing the luxury of ice into the parched land of the Ptolemys. This common product of wintry regions is known to be as grateful to the languid natives of tropical climates as ardent spirits are to the benumbed inhabitants of the Polar Circle. Having succeeded in effecting a return to his family, the enterprizing Parisian was enabled, by the friendly assistance of Gay Lussac and Thenard, to adopt the best means that chymistry could devise for the preservation of ice, both during the voyage, and after his arrival in a sultry latitude; and at length set out from Paris with his inventions, and arrived safely at Alexandria, in April, 1823. The sovereign of Egypt, Mohammed Ali, was delighted at this novel addition to oriental luxuries; and, besides valuable presents, gave the inventor the exclusive right, for five years, of importing ice into his own dominions. This privelege is estimated to be worth one million of francs, or nearly 50,000*l.* In ancient times, the world was enlightened by the learning of Egypt; the greatest philosophers traveled thither as to the fountain head of science; but the land of Sesostris and Alexander has now become the prey of the ferocious Moslem; and whatever she enjoys of art, knowledge, or civilization, she is compelled to receive from the once barbarous regions of the West.*

* Scots Mechan. Mag. 1825.

A game of ten pins, or as they are called in N. England, nine pins, was played a few days ago in Philadelphia, in which with thirty three balls each, the players scored, the one 198, and the other 197. They were probably a company of Poets who wished to afford practical illustration of the following Epigram, which we recollect seeing some years since:

While playing skittles, ere I took my quid,
The Muses I invoked my work to crown:
"Descend, ye Nine," I cried, and so they did,
For in a trice I knocked the nine pins down.

The Cholera.—The number of deaths that have occurred since our last publication, of this much dreaded disease, has been less than they were for a number of weeks previous.—The following is a list of the deaths that have taken place during the week ending at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, as far as we have been able to ascertain; those in Italics being from Cholera, viz: Mr. Thomas Wood; Mrs. Lehman; Miss Emeline Pike; George Darby, an apprentice of Mr. E. Glover; Mr C. C. Beard, Mrs. Mary Ann Baird, and their only child, aged about two years; Mr. Ephraim Sells; Mr. Ebenezer Thomas, watch maker; a child of the late Mr. Morningstar; Diana Johnson, a colored woman; Mr. John Cochran; Mr. Bates, a colored man; a child of Mr. Cowling; Mr. Philander Sweet; and four or five others, whose names we have not been able to learn.—Columbus (O.) Jour., Sept. 7.

A REJOINDER.—The Pennsylvanian of yesterday replies to the "remarks" of the Washington Globe, as follows:

"The Washington Globe is quite amusing. While we are engaged in active hostilities with the U. S. Bank on this field of Waterloo, it repeats the stale calumny of the Evening Post, and charges us with being in the interest of that institution. We never had any thing to do with the Bank—not as much to do as our worthy friend of the Globe—we never was a debtor for $20,000, AND PAID IT WITH $237!!! The fact is, the Globe has overshot its mark a little—we perfectly understand it." —Balt. Chron., Sept. 6.

We have read a handbill, issued by T. P. Moore, Esq., containing a letter which he addressed to Mr. Letcher, and the reply of that gentleman. He made two propositions to Mr. Letcher, which we really are astonished that Mr. L. could have the unkindness to refuse, as they indicated so much magnanimity on the part of the ex-minister. The first was to run the race over: or secondly—both to retire, and let the district be represented by some one else. There was good sense, however, in the reply of Mr. Letcher, when he refused to run the race over; for, says he, "what security can I have that the poll book will not be missing again? so that Congress will at last be put to the necessity of gravely deciding whether a whole county can be robbed of its right to say who shall be its Representative."

The Mail and Passengers are now transported, by aid of the rail road, between Petersburg and Fayetteville, in 36 hours—distance 219 miles—from this town to Baltimore, by the way of Norfolk, by steam boats, in 28 hours; by the way of Washington in 32 hours; from Baltimore to Philadelphia in nine hours; making the whole time taken in traveling from Fayetteville, N. C. thro' Petersburg, to Philadelphia, but seventy three hours—and such is the arrangement of the line, that the passengers are not disturbed of their rest but one night. The road from Blakely to Fayetteville is known to be one of the best in the Southern States, and the horses and coaches are first rate. We are not aware that any rout of communication from the South to the North, presents as many comforts and conveniences to the travelers as the above.—Petersburg Intel.

Proposals for publishing in New York, a new daily paper, to be called The Evening Star, have been issued, by M. M. Noah, and Thomas Gill, late of the Evening Post. It is to be devoted to news, commerce, literature, and "will afford a friendly, but independent support to the present general and state administrations." The subscription price is ten dollars per annum.

In a pamphlet of sixteen pages, Messrs. Noah and Gill, give in detail an exposition of their proposed course, in conducting the Evening Star. The following is an extract:—

"The campaign for the next Presidency has already been chalked out by the regency, and covers but little ground. It is to seize on Pennsylvania, and coax Ohio into a coalition with New York, and these three states, by the magnitude of their joint vote, are to overawe the remaining twenty one states of the confederacy. Pennsylvania, however, is not as easy managed as the Albany regency imagined. That truly democratic state will not tamely submit to become a dependency on the regency,—that state will not allow the managers to cramp her resources, and turn the current of her internal prosperity into new and unfriendly channels; will not allow that state pride, which took the lead in the nomination of Andrew Jackson, to be sullied and broken down, by an unconditional surrender to the plans and management of the Albany junto.—Ohio, which is a state more remote from such pernicious influence, has candidates of her own, who may fearlessly be presented to the choice of a free and honest people."

One of the New York play bills states that "the play of Sarah Maria Cornell was received on Tuesday evening, by a full and crowded audience, with the most thrilling and wonderful applause."

A letter from New Orleans, dated 19th ult. states, that the Yellow Fever has prevailed at that place for the past ten days, but endeavors were made to keep it as secret as possible. Twenty five to thirty deaths occurred daily. The city is said to be in a very filthy state, and party spirit, it is stated, runs high.

Archdeacon Robinson, of Calcutta, has been chosen to the Bishoprick of Madras.

MR. & MRS. ALDEN, formerly of Meadville, but lately of Cincinnati, contemplate opening a Young Ladies' Boarding and Day School, in the Borough of Allegheny, on the last Monday of the present month of August.

Without entering into particulars, their object will be to instruct in the various branches usually taught at our best female institutions. Among the Day Scholars, a class of boys, under eight years of age, will be received.

☞For terms—application may be made to the Teachers, at the house recently occupied by the Rev. Mr. Halsey, which Mr. Alden has taken for the proposed purpose, till a prospectus shall have been published.

PERIODICALS.

AMERICAN RAILROAD JOURNAL, and Advocate of Internal Improvements, which is designed as a repository of the accounts of the rise and progress of numerous works of Internal Improvement, in the United States particularly, and in other parts of the world generally. The work is published weekly, and forms a large octavo volume each year, of 832 pages of 3 columns each, for $3 per annum, in advance.

New York Farmer, and American Gardener's Magazine. This work is designed for the agriculturist, and will be found to contain much, both interesting and profitable, to those who cultivate the soil as a business, or merely a garden for amusement. Published in monthly parts of 32 large octavo pages, with three columns each, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. The Mechanics' Magazine will contain, also, a due portion of the occurrences of the month, Scientific and Literary Reviews of Books, Anecdotes, Economical Receipts, Reports of the state of Mechanics' Institutions, and other Scientific Societies in this state and other countries. To be published monthly. Each succeeding number will contain 64 pages, handsomely printed, and stitched in a neat cover. Six numbers will form a volume, for which an index and title page will be supplied, and also a Portrait of some distinguished Mechanic, as a Frontispiece. Terms, $3 per annum, in advance.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM ☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞ A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a l cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
